FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Los Angeles, CA - May 3, 2012 -- Photobooth.net is proud to announce the 2012 International Photobooth Convention, a gathering of photobooth enthusiasts, artists, collectors, and historians, which will be held May 18th and 19th at the Electric Lodge, off Abbot Kinney in Venice, California.

The convention comes to Los Angeles this year after previous events in London, Belgrade, New York, St. Louis, and Chicago since its founding in 1999. The event is free and open to the public and will feature both color and black and white vintage photochemical photoboos, courtesy of Classic Photo Booth, LLC, and Foto-Mat Entertainment. The convention will also include a series of photobooth-related talks, workshops, and collaborative projects for visitors to enjoy and take part in. A special show of international photobooth art will commemorate the 25th anniversary of the first group show devoted to art created in the photobooth. On Sunday, convention-goers can take a guided tour of Los Angeles-area photoboos.

The revelry will kick off on Friday night with a gallery opening and reception. Saturday's festivities will include a screening, a talk on the history of photoboos in cinema by film preservationist Brian Meacham, a photobooth photo reproduction workshop with artist Anthony Vizzari, and a variety of participatory photobooth art projects. The photoboos will be open for public use on both days of the event.

Photoboos have been a vital part of the American landscape for more than one hundred years. Families, children, photography enthusiasts, artists, and fun-seekers will all find something to enjoy at this year's convention.
